Channel Islands Head of Operations

Our client an independent international Group is seeking a C.I. Head of Operations who can ensure operational efficiency and achieve maximum profitability by developing procedures that meet the current and future commercial needs of the business, whilst ensuring that all Health, Safety, Environmental and statutory responsibilities are fulfilled.

As part of the Senior Management Team, this is a key role and a strategic one for someone who has the ability to work under pressure and adapt quickly to changing priorities and will provide an excellent opportunity to work with a dynamic organisation who is now on the threshold of an exciting new phase of development.

Professional engineering qualifications are essential together with substantial experience at a senior level in a similar environment. Applicants will have proven QHSSE participation along with the interpersonal and leadership skills to motivate and manage a professional team.
